Background

EU criminal law:

- Directive 2013/48/EU on the right to access to a lawyer and to communicate upon arrest;
- Directive 2016/343/EU on the right to be presumed innocent until proved guilty according to law, to remain silent and not to incriminate oneself:
- Directive 2016/1919/EU on the right to legal aid;
- Directive 2010/64/EU on the right to interpretation and translation;
- Directive 2012/13/EU on the right to information;

provides suspects and accused with a set of procedural rights to ensure that their basic rights are protected sufficiently. A key prerequisite to enable suspects and accused to effectively benefit from these safeguards is the degree to which these persons are aware of and adequately understand these rights and how to exercise them. This is particularly relevant as far as vulnerable groups of individuals, such as persons with psycho-social or intellectual disabilities are concerned.

The project is aimed at upholding the criminal procedural rights of suspects and accused with psychosocial or intellectual disabilities by strengthening the implementation of relevant EU criminal law.
